Genuine Poultry in Kijisho

The taste of poultry is surprisingly changed by the factors, method of cutting and freshness. The poultry cooked in Kijisho, (Japanese pheasant, duck, and chicken,) is distinguished strictly by our professionals. Then it is cut by applying our traditional cutting technique, which allows us to have safe & fresh poultry, because bowels, where many viruses are living, are not cut.

Our poultry is actually safe enough to have it in the row.

This is just to be pleased by you having genuine marvellous poultry dishes...
